Description: The Estonian University of Life Sciences (Estonian: Eesti Maaülikool, EMÜ), located in Tartu, Estonia, is the former Estonian Agricultural University, which was established in 1951 and renamed and restructured in November 2005. Eesti Maaülikool is, by its own claim, the only university in Estonia whose priorities in academic and research activities provide the sustainable development of natural resources necessary for the existence of Man as well as the preservation of heritage and habitat. The EMÜ is a centre of research and development in such fields as agriculture, forestry, animal science, veterinary science, rural life and economy, food science and environmentally friendly technologies. The university is a member of the BOVA university network. Teaching and research is carried out in five institutes: * Institute of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences * Institute of Veterinary Medicine and Animal Sciences * Institute of Forestry and Rural Engineering * Institute of Technology * Institute of Economics and Social Sciences. In 2009, there were 4704 students at EMU. There were 983 employees, among them 228 lecturers and 159 researchers and senior researchers. (Wikipedia)
